MANY STARVING.

Grim Want Stalks Abroad in City of Havana.

MANY ARE TOO PROUD TO BEG.

Havana correspondence of the New ork Prezs: The coming of the Amerins to Havana as a result of the peace etween the United States and Spain as done little for the suffering poor of he city. In fact, the situation is worse ow than it was the day after the sign-ng of the protocol! Evidences of dire distress and poverare conspicuous in every street, and at night the sidewalks of the thorough-fares are crowded by the unhappy mortals who are compelled to find a night's Lodging on the stones of the doorways. To some extent this was the case imediately after the blockade, but for me reason it has increased ever since. Then only the poor of Havana proper were to be seen. Now the poor from surrounding country and the adent cities, who have heard of the influx of Americans, have made their way hare in order to beg subsistence which y were unable to find where they

he result is disappointing to them. or the first month after the war Amer-ans gave freely to the beggars of the reet, but it soon became an old story; same beggar was compelled to beg m the same man the second, the ird time, and so on indefinitely. Soon he man who had given aid a dozen es became tired of the never-ending tream of beggars that approached him, and he made up his mind to refuse, and has refused ever since. Such is the ry of the street beggar.

But the suffering in Havana, the rst suffering, is never known to any ne save he who investigates. In the omes where the blinds are closed and doors seldom opened; where there exterior signs of peace and comfort, e worst suffering is to be found. The cupants of these homes in many in-ances are widows with children whe have not tasted bread for days and to whose palate meat is almost an unown substance. These persons, with good blood in their veins, prefer to die rather than to beg.

An example worthy of illustration aring directly on this subject was esented yesterday in front of the Ho-

Pasje. A woman, middle-aged, ssed in black, a dress that had seen ny better days and which originally as of a fine texture, appealed to sevoke broken English; she explained it she had lived in the United States r a number of years; her husband was American; he had died, and she had urned to her own people in Havana. e was living in a flat wherein had bed that very morning two children, cause of whose death was starva-She took the writer to the room showed the two little corpses upon a pallet on the floor. The mother, who was also a widow, lay on a bed nearby dying from the same trouble—starvation. No other words were necessary to tell the story. There was the evidence; here were two dead children and their other almost dead. The guide gave ie writer a dozen addresses where simllar scenes were being enacted, and these all within a small radius.

Nothing is being done to relieve the terrible suffering in Havana. The United States government has given employment to several thousand men, but all these men represent only a small percentage of the suffering population. There are almost 200,000 inhabitants in the city. Of these 25,000 are suffering. They have no food, no clothing, no home. The men of the family cannot obtain work. There are few industries in Havana that give employment.

Many of the sufferers are Spaniards nd it is a fact, while a sad one, that his class is being discriminated against n favor of the Cubans. The Spaniard calizes when he applies with a Cuban o an American for work that the Cuan will get the preference. ves this, and perhaps has experienced that such is a fact, and therefore ap plies with little or no spirit.

The road from Havana to the ceme ries, a distance of two miles, has for ve months seen a continuous procession of funerals. In the summer the deaths were attributed to the fever. iter in the season other diseases were said to be the cause, but now the fever vanished. Not a case of smallpox exists, so that the truth has at last made itself evident.

AMERICAN PRODUCT ABROAD. The Past Year's Trade with Liverpool

The Past Year's Trade with Liverpool the Best in History.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—Consul Boyle, in a report on the trade of Liverpool with the United States, says that the past year has been the best one in history for trade in American products in that district, and there is every reason to believe it will continue to grow. There has been a very material decline, however, in trade generally at Liverpool during recent years.

The value of the total importations in 1897 was $1,821,325 less than in 1895. There has also been a very material falling of 1897 was $7,827,325 less than in 1896. There has also been a very material falling off in the total exports to all countries. Consul Royle says in part:

"There are two very remarkable facts in connection with this falling off in trade of Liverpool. First, that, contrary to general belief, the falling off in exportation has been not only with the United States, but with the world at large, and, so far as imperiations are concerned, those from the United States have been continually increasing; second, this decrease of trade is in spite of a substantial control of the continual intercessing. The continual intercessing and clearing and clearing at this pressels of trade is in spite of a substantial responsible to the continual intercessing. "While the figures covering the importations at Liverpool from the United States are not available, there is not the slightest doubt that more American goods, both agricultural and manufactured, came into Liverpool during 1897 than in any other year; and even the exports to the United States in 1897 show a substantial increase of "Canadian competition with the United States in this market in meat, corn, provisions and fruit has developed greatly during the past year, and threatens to be keener in the future.

"The most noteworthy phase of the trade in American beef is the great increase in the importation of chilled meat. Until quite recently it has been considered that the meat of American cattle slaughtered here was far superior, to the meat of American cattle slaughtered here was far superior, to the meat of American cattle slaughtered here. The chilled meat trade is increasing enormously, and there is a growing conviction that in the course of a few years it will almost entirely take the place of American cattle slaughtered here. The chilled meat trade is increasing to vast dimensions, but there is a forth sold as English; indeed, the choice cuts of American meat is often sold as English; indeed, the choice cuts of American meating and increased trade in fresh chilled pork

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 .- George Tyler, a young man twenty-one years of age, was to-night killed in an impromptu prize fight in Jersey City by Thomas Poley, a young man about twenty-three years old. The two had an unsatisfacyears old. The two had an unsatisfac-tors sparring bout a few days ago and decided to settle it to-night. In the first round both men received a good deal of punishment, but toward the close Foley landed a right swing on the point of Tyler's jaw. Tyler drop-ped and after being counted out was taken to a hospital, where he was pro-nounced dead. His neck was broken.
